Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Results of Operations

The FÉRIQUE World Dividend Equity Fund posted a net return of 8.4% for the period ended June 30, 2024. Its benchmark, the MSCI All Country World ex-Canada Index (CA$), posted 16.6% for the same period. Contrary to benchmark returns, which include no investment fees, returns are expressed net of management and operating expenses payable by the Fund.

On a relative basis, the Fund underperformed its industry median¹, which posted 11.5%, net of management fees for the period.

Stock selection was the primary driver of relative underperformance. Weak selection in Information Technology, Health Care and Industrials detracted the most, but was partially offset by positive selection in Consumer Discretionary, Real Estate and Energy. Because of the portfolio sub-manager's bottom-up selection process, sector allocation also dragged down returns due to underweights to Information Technology and Communication Services and an overweight to Utilities.

This positioning was partially offset by the underweight to the Consumer Discretionary and Materials sectors. Regionally, stock selection in North America, Europe and Asia also hampered relative performance. At the stock level, the lack of holdings in NVIDIA and overweight to Intel Corporation (Information Technology) detracted the most from relative performance, while an off-benchmark position in Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Company, in Information Technology, and a lack of position in Tesla in Consumer Discretionary, contributed the most.

During the period, Wellington initiated a new position in Diageo, a U.K.-based spirit producer that was previously held in the portfolio but sold off when its valuation became less attractive after the COVID-19 pandemic. Diageo benefits from long-term trends in spirit consumption, global exposure and a diversified brand portfolio. As the company is well managed and strongly committed to dividends, the price correction it suffered provided an opportunity for the portfolio sub-manager to invest in a strong brand at an attractive absolute and relative valuation.

The portfolio sub-manager also added a position in EQT Corporation, an independent natural gas producer. EQT is capitalizing on the artificial intelligence (AI) boom by facilitating the construction of data centres. The company's involvement in AI's capacity development will contribute to continued tightening of U.S. natural gas fundamentals.

Meanwhile, the position in Schneider Electric, a French multinational company that specializes in digital automation and energy management, was sold off. The company has successfully focused its activities on power generation and automation. It has also improved its capital allocation policies and provides attractive shareholder returns. The portfolio sub-manager trimmed the position on strength early in the year before liquidating it later in the period. The portfolio sub-manager also exited its position in well performing Mondelez International, a U.S.-based global snack food company, in favour of investments in companies with more attractive valuations.

The portfolio sub-manager engaged with several companies held in the portfolio over environmental, social and governance (ESG) matters during the period, including Engie SA (Utilities) on its waste management practices as well as its energy and climate transition risk.

The Fund follows the responsible approach to investing, which is described in the simplified prospectus. This approach is one of the multiple components of the investment strategies used to help reach the objective of the Fund and thus constitutes a limited consideration of ESG factors. The consideration of ESG factors and the engagements with companies are not part of the investment objective of the Fund and, therefore, ESG factors and shareholder engagements are not the primary strategy of the Fund.

Recent Developments

Global equities advanced during the period, driven by continued enthusiasm for generative AI, stronger-than-expected earnings and central banks' dovish stance. The market continued to be dominated by a few mega cap technology companies and growth stocks outperformed value stocks.

The portfolio sub-manager expects markets to remain volatile in the second half of the year. Persistent labour market tightness and wage growth seem inconsistent with the interest rate cuts the market is pricing in. Central banks remain in the challenging position of balancing resilient job creation numbers with moderating inflation that is still above target. Uncertainty around consumer spending, labour market strength, wage growth and election outcomes in the United States and worldwide will continue to drive inflation.

Price discovery is still adjusting to the higher rate environment. This will cause market unrest and make high valuations hard to sustain, particularly for mega cap Information Technology companies. While relative valuations remain compelling, there are still uncertainties about the persistence of global decoupling, the pace of China's post-pandemic recovery and long-term economic growth beyond the property sector and the future of the Bank of Japan's yield curve control. Overall, the portfolio sub-manager continues to find attractive investment opportunities in resilient dividend-paying companies with valuations at a discount for transitory reasons.

The portfolio is most overweight to Financials, Health Care and Utilities but most underweight to Information Technology, Communication Services and Consumer Discretionary.

Mr. Gérard Guilbault's mandate as a member of the IRC ended on March 31, 2024. Mr. Sylvain Piché replaced Mr. Gérard Guilbault as a member of the IRC under a three (3)-year mandate, starting April 1, 2024.

⁽¹⁾ This information is provided as at June 30, 2024 and as at December 31 for the comparative accounting periods.
