Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Investment Objectives and Strategies

The FÉRIQUE Short-Term Income Fund seeks to preserve capital and maximize income. The Fund mainly invests in money market securities, including commercial paper, bank acceptances* and federal and provincial government Treasury bills.

In choosing the investments, the portfolio sub-manager considers economic conditions and their impact on interest rates. If the portfolio sub-manager forecasts an increase in interest rates, it will opt for short-term securities. However, if the portfolio sub-manager believes that the rates will decrease, it will choose longer-term securities.

Money is mainly invested and reinvested in money market securities, including commercial paper and asset-backed commercial paper sponsored by Canadian chartered banks denominated in Canadian dollars and issued and guaranteed by major Canadian and foreign corporations. Money may also be invested in Treasury bills issued by the Government of Canada and provincial governments. Moreover, money market securities of municipalities and school boards may be purchased. Also, money may be invested in the bond market in securities denominated in Canadian dollars issued by governments, agencies or Canadian or foreign corporations and in investment certificates issued by financial institutions such as banks, trust companies and credit unions.

Risk

The risks of investing in the Fund remain the same as those described in the Prospectus. This Fund is intended for investors with a low risk tolerance. During the period, there were no changes to the Fund that materially affected the overall risk level associated with an investment in the Fund.

Results of Operations

The FÉRIQUE Short-Term Income Fund, managed by CIBC Asset Management Inc. (CIBC), posted a net return of 2.8% for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2025. Its benchmark, composed of the FTSE Canada 91 day T-Bill Index (50%) and the FTSE Canada 30 day T-Bill Index (50%), posted 2.8% over the same period. Contrary to benchmark returns, which include no investment fees, returns are expressed net of management and operating expenses payable by the Fund.

The Fund outperformed its industry median,¹ which posted 2.3% net of fees for the fiscal year.

It maintained its overweight position to corporate issuers, increasing its running yield and thereby adding to its overall outperformance. Canadian banks' floating rate notes and short-term asset-backed securities also contributed to returns.

The Bank of Canada (BoC) continued its monetary easing cycle, bringing down its policy interest rate from 3.25% to 2.25% over the 12-month period. Early in the period, the central bank cut rates to counter the economic impacts of U.S. tariffs on Canadian goods, which have significant uncertainty over Canada's economic outlook. Finally, the BoC kept rates steady, monitoring economic conditions and inflation trends, before implementing two further rate cuts in the second half of the period as the labour market showed signs of slowing and inflationary pressures eased.

In the United States, the U.S. Federal Reserve (Fed) lowered its federal funds rate from 4.00–4.25% to 3.50–3.75% over the period. After holding rates steady for nine months, the Fed implemented three consecutive rate cuts in the fourth quarter. Fed officials expressed concern about the cooling labour market and slowing economy amid ongoing trade tensions, while inflation remained above its 2% target. Although the Fed is considering one additional rate cut in 2026, officials are divided on its timing and magnitude.

In 2025, the portfolio sub-manager discussed succession planning and corporate governance plans with BMO.

The Fund's responsible approach to investing is described in the simplified prospectus. The Fund, which is an ESG limited consideration Fund, follows the following approach: hire managers who integrate ESG factors. This approach is one of several components of the investment strategies used to help achieve the Fund's objectives. ESG factors are not part of the Fund's investment objectives and, consequently, ESG factors do not constitute the Fund's core strategy.

Recent Developments

Canada's economy grew over the period despite significant U.S. tariffs on key industries. The manufacturing sector was particularly hard-hit, as softer U.S. demand for Canadian goods like lumber, aluminum, steel and automotive products weighed on orders and output. In response, the new Canadian Prime Minister pledged to transform the economy and diversify trade. These efforts to reduce Canada's reliance on the U.S. market and improve trade relationships with other nations helped boost economic activity.

Despite periods of weakness and declining confidence, consumer spending remained relatively resilient, supporting economic growth. Canada was unable to secure a sectoral trade deal with the United States, but negotiations are expected to continue ahead of the Canada-United States-Mexico Agreement (CUSMA) review in 2026. After shrinking in the second quarter of 2025 amid a sharp decline in exports, Canada's economy expanded anew in the third quarter as exports recovered. Canada's labour market experienced a slowdown but showed some signs of stabilizing by the end of the year. Inflation remained close to the BoC's 2% target, the central bank believing that inflationary pressures are largely contained while upside risks still loom.

The portfolio sub-manager expects Canadian monetary policy to remain accommodative in 2026, though further rate cuts may come at a slower pace. However, the central bank could shift its policy stance quickly if economic conditions change, particularly if the trade relationship with the United States gets strained and negatively affects Canada's economy, inflation or labour market.

Against this backdrop, the portfolio will remain overweight to corporate bonds while maintaining some exposure to floating rate notes to increase the Fund's yield. As interest rates are expected to remain steady or fall, the portfolio sub-manager will keep the portfolio's average maturity at neutral or overweight.
